ABOUT WRSU-FM

WRSU-FM is a non-commercial, non-profit radio station and is student-managed under the guidance of a faculty broadcast administrator. Station management is governed by the WRSU Radio Council, an oversight board consisting of station members, Rutgers professors and alumni, and local broadcast professionals. For more information visit our website at <http://wrsu.org>. Founded in 1948, WRSU-FM is one of the oldest college radio stations in the nation. Since its inception as WRSU-AM, the station has evolved through many styles, including oldies, top 40, and its transition in the 1980s, to the great variety of sounds it is renowned for today. WRSU on-air personalities range from first-semester Rutgers freshmen to longtime alumni and community members. WRSU can be heard on 88.7 FM in the New Brunswick area and on the web at <http://wrsu.org>.

ABOUT THE BROOK ARTS CENTER

Following a grand opening in September 2009, the Brook has hosted entertainment, educational, and fundraising events, including summer camp and a performance by Kelsea's Performing Arts Center, a talent show representing several churches in Bound Brook, the Somerset Valley Orchestra and Raritan Valley Chorale, the Pine Barons, Operation Adelmo, a tribute to the 9/11 responders, and silent movies. Theater restoration continues with the recent installation of the marquee and targeted improvements to the acoustics within the theater. For more information visit <http://www.brookarts.org/>.
